

Introduction to Buddhism and Meditation

About the retreat

These retreats are an excellent short introduction to Buddhism and Meditation. We will cover an introduction to two traditional Buddhist meditations; the mindfulness of breathing and the development of loving kindness (Metta Bhavana), as well as an introduction to some key elements of the Buddhist tradition. As well as giving a grounding in the basic principles of Buddhism and meditation, these retreats are an ideal reflective situation in which to take a fresh look at ourselves.

These retreats are suitable for complete beginners to meditation as well as being an ideal refresher for those who already have some experience. You can expect there to be between 20 and 26 retreatants on these retreats

What can you expect from the programme?

The retreat day starts at 7am with a rising bell, and a meditation at 7.30am. Meditation sessions will begin with some instruction and will normally last for between 20 and 30 minutes. After breakfast there will be a mixture of talks, workshops, reflection exercises, and meditation to help us explore Buddhism and Buddhist meditation experientially. The afternoon will normally be free time with a shorter meditation session before the evening meal. In the evening there will be a mix of group discussions and an exploration of Buddhist chanting and ritual.

There will be periods of silence on the retreat to support reflection. These will normally be overnight, but may also include substantial periods during the day.

About the retreat team

These retreats are normally led by members of our teaching team.
